Exam Overview (IELTS Academic)

IELTS stands for International English Language Testing System, and is an important exam for students applying for college and university courses. There are four papers:

Listening: 30 minutes

The listening paper has four parts and includes conversations and monologues in both social and academic contexts. You hear each recording only once.

Reading: 1 hour

This paper consists of three long texts from books, journals, magazines and newspapers. There are 40 questions, and a range of question types is used in order to test different reading skills, such as reading for main ideas, reading for detail and recognising writers' opinions and attitudes.

Writing: 1 hour

For both tasks, you will need to use a formal writing style. Task 1 involves summarising and describing information displayed in a chart, graph, table or diagram. In Task 2 you have to write an essay.

Speaking: 11-14 minutes

The speaking test has three parts. Part 1 contains general questions about yourself. In Part 2 you are given a card with instructions to talk on a particular topic. You will have one minute to prepare and will have to talk for two minutes. Part 3 is a discussion based on the same topic.
